Columbo's Adventures

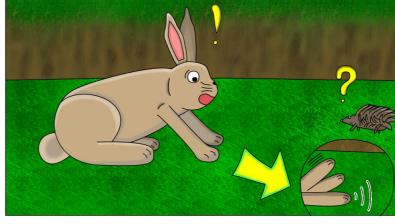

You may not know it but we use coded language to communicate between us! Officially, it's just used to warn of danger... But it goes further than that...

Since the dawn of time, rabbits violently hurt their front paws... Today, for the first time, I'm going to tell you the real reason!

The noise our paws make on the floor is a meting signal to prepare our earth invasion! We are millions and we are ready!
